General Guidelines:

- Group members must come prepared to discuss the readings (having perused them at least).
- Group discussion is a cooperative, not competitive, learning process. Good results depend on everyone sharing their thoughts. Through active discussion you all will often come up with new insights that no one had previously arrived at individually, through a dialogic learning process.
- Every member of the group is given the opportunity to participate and makes some contribution to the group discussion process, taking turns doing so. Group discussion leaders should hold other members accountable by actively seeking their input.
- Material from the readings is discussed (stay on topic), though not necessarily comprehensively, as the group should go more in-depth key points of its choosing.
