Current Event # _____

(put the current event assignment number [example: Current Event #1])

X

I need a copy of the article
1. you can cut it out and staple it
2. copy and paste from a computer
3. or email me a link. (pbinder@pps.net)

---

1. Copy word-for-word a significant comment, statistic, well-written sentence, or quote from the article.
2. Punctuate properly with quotation marks and end marks—include any other marks of punctuation used in the news item as well.
    a. Put quotation marks (") in front of the first word copied and after the last word copied
    b. The last end mark of punctuation goes after the parenthetical citation.
    c. Copying a quote requires special punctuation.
        i. When directly copying a quote, use a single quotation mark in addition to the two quotation marks to indicate the parts of the quote in the news item that you are copying.
        ii. Place double quotation marks first, then the single quotation mark before the copied quote ("')
        iii. Put the single quotation mark after the copied quote ('), and the double quotation marks after the tag line (used to identify who said the words).
3. Cite your source—give credit to the author (last name or names only) and source from which you copied your quotation.
    a. Place the parenthetical citation after the copied words and place the end mark of punctuation after the parentheses.
    b. In the parentheses, list the last name (or names) of the authors, the source (basic periodical or website name, and page number (if it is a printed news item) or date you accessed the online article (day, month, and year—without punctuation).

online example with author:
    "A launch failure is a dramatic, expensive, visceral event" (Spotts, csmonitor.com, 29 October 2014).

internet example without author:
    "A launch failure is a dramatic, expensive, visceral event" (csmonitor.com, 29 October 2014).

newspaper articles with author:
    "A launch failure is a dramatic, expensive, visceral event" (Spotts, Oregonian, page A7).

newspaper articles without author:
    "A launch failure is a dramatic, expensive, visceral event" (Oregonian, page A7).

copying a quote example with author:
    "'A launch failure is a dramatic, expensive, visceral event' acknowledged Clarissa Christensen" (Spotts, csmonitor.com, 29 October 2014).

Quote: _____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Type:

- ❑ Local/Regional
- ❑ National
- ❑ International
- ❑ Sports
- ❑ Health

- ❑ Business
- ❑ Economy
- ❑ Politics
- ❑ Science
- ❑ Technology

Source: _____

(newspaper name, basic web site name, etc.)

Locate and label on map

Who: _____
_____
_____
_____

Where: _____
_____

When: _____
_____

What: _____

In your own words… paraphrase *should be 4 sentences minimum & cover the entire article

_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____
_____

PRESENTATION:

☐ EYE CONTACT   ☐ VOLUME   ☐ BODY LANGUAGE   ☐ PACING/CLARITY   ☐ CONTENT